General Regulations

ARTICLE 12. CONTRACT CONDITIONS

1. This contract is established based on the statements expressed by the Policyholder and/or the Insured(s), who have the duty, before the termination of the contract, to declare to the Insurer, in accordance with the health questionnaire it gave him/her, all circumstances known by him/her which might influence the risk assessment.
2. In case of reservation or inaccuracy in the statement, the Insurer may cancel the contract by statement addressed to the Policyholder within the period of one month, starting from the knowledge of the reservation or inaccuracy. The Insurer will be responsible for the premiums for the current period at the time this statement is made, except in the case of fraud or gross negligence by it. If the aforementioned reservation or inaccuracy is only attributable to one of the Insured(s), the Insurer may exclude him/her from the policy through a notice addressed to the Policyholder.
3. In the event of inaccurate indication of the age of the Insured, the Insurer can refute the contract if the true age of the Insured at the time of its entry into force exceeds the admission limits established by the Insurer.

   If, as a result of this inaccuracy, the premium paid is lower than the one that would correspond, the Policyholder or the Insured will be obliged to compensate the Insurer for the difference between the agreed premium and that which would have applied, it the true age of the Insured were known. If, on the contrary, the premium paid is higher than the one that should have been paid, the Insurer will be obliged to return the excess of the received premiums, interest-free.
4. The Policyholder and, where appropriate, the Insured(s) must, during the term of the contract, inform the Insurer as soon as possible of all circumstances that aggravate the risk and are of such a nature that if they had been known by the Insurer at the time the contract was drawn up, it would not have entered into it or would have entered into it under more burdensome conditions for them. Likewise, the Policyholder or the Insured must inform the Insurer of all circumstances that decrease the risk.

The Policyholder must also notify the Insurer, as soon as possible, of a change of the family address.

5. Adding New Insured Parties to the Policy.

   The registration in the policy, if the company accepts his/her insurance coverage, shall not take effect until the endorsement is issued and the corresponding premium is paid, which will be determined by the application of the rates that the Insurance Company has in force on the date on which the registration takes place.

6. Registration of newborns.

   In the case of newborn children of the Insured party, these shall be incorporated into the policy from the date of birth in identical conditions as those purchased by the Insured party, without the calculation of more waiting periods than those applicable to the Insured party, provided that they comply with the following requirements:

   – That the request is made to incorporate the newborn in the policy within ten work days from the date of birth, by completing the application established for that purpose.
   – That the registration of the Insured party took effect in a time equal to or greater than 8 months immediately prior to the birth.

   If the aforementioned requirements are not met, the incorporation of the newborn will be subject to the selection and contracting regulations of the Insurance Company.

   Regardless of the provisions of the preceding paragraphs, if the newborn has any congenital disease and/or malformation, the Insurance Company guarantees the acceptance of his/her registration in the insurance, always after payment of the corresponding premium, and with the essential and additional requirement that the registration in the policy of the mother or father took effect at least 8 months prior to the birth.

7. Subrogation of the Insurer.

   Once the assistance has been provided, the Insurer may exercise the rights and actions that, due to the incident, would correspond to the Insured before the individuals liable for the incident.

   The Insured party shall be liable for the injuries and damages caused through actions or omissions to the Insurance Company in its right of subrogation.

ARTICLE 13. EXECUTION, LEGAL EFFECT AND DURATION OF THE CONTRACT

1. The insurance will enter into force on the day and time indicated in the Specific Conditions of the policy, provided that, unless agreed otherwise, the Insurer has collected the first premium invoice.

2. The insurance is for the period stipulated in the Specific Conditions. Expiry thereof will be automatically extended for annual periods, unless either of the parties objects to the extension by providing written notice thereof to the other party, at least one month before the end of the current period when it is the Policyholder that opposes the extension, or two months when the Insurer opposes.
3. The insurance coverage will automatically cease from the date of termination of the policy. From that moment on, the Insured will not be entitled to subsequent health services even if they are caused by illnesses or accidents prior to the aforementioned date of termination.

ARTICLE 14. REMOTE CONTRACTING

When taking out insurance remotely, the provisions of this Article shall apply. Insurance is deemed to be contracted remotely when only remote communication means are used for negotiating and entering into the contract, without the physical and simultaneous presence of the provider and the consumer, consisting in the use of telematic and electronic means, telephone, fax, or other similar means.

When insurance is taken out remotely, the insurance will enter into force at midnight the day after the Policyholder has given his/her consent, unless another date is selected by express agreement. In any case, the effective date will be included in the Specific Conditions of the policy.

Notwithstanding the indications of the preceding paragraphs, the contract and its modifications or additions must be formalized in writing. The Insurer is obliged to deliver the insurance policy to the Policyholder. The Policyholder must return a copy of the Specific Conditions of the policy, signed by him/her to the Insurer, as well as the supporting documents of the circumstances that comprise the risk.

The Policyholder, when it is a consumer, i.e., a natural person acting with a different purpose than that of a commercial or professional activity, shall have a period of 14 calendar days to withdraw from the contract obtained remotely, without indicating reasons and without any penalty, provided an incident has not occurred.

This period will start from the day of entering into the contract or from the date on which the Insurer delivers the policy.

The Policyholder must notify the Insurer through a procedure that allows proof of notice in any manner permitted by law, and shall be obliged to pay the corresponding premium up to the time of the withdrawal. If the premium has been collected, the Insurer shall reimburse the amount to the Policyholder, within a maximum period of 30 calendar days, except the part corresponding to the time period in which the contract was valid until the time of withdrawal.

ARTICLE 15. AMOUNT, PAYMENT OF THE PREMIUM AND EFFECTS OF DEFAULT

A) GENERAL REGULATIONS

1. The Policyholder is required to pay the premiums according to conditions stipulated in the policy.

2. Invoices for premiums must be paid by the Policyholder on their corresponding expiry dates by advance complete annuities. However, it may be agreed for the payment of the premium to be in the form of installments, with the application of the corresponding surcharge. These installments and the corresponding surcharge will be stated in the Specific Conditions of the policy and/or the Individual Insurance Certificate.
3. If the location of the payment of the premium is not specified, it will take place at the residence of the Policyholder.
4. The premium is indivisible and shall be owed to the Insurer in its entirety for the duration of the contract agreed upon, even in the event that payment in installments is agreed to. Should the contract or any of its extensions be terminated before the agreed expiry date, the Insurer is not required to reimburse the Policyholder for any amount of the premium paid in whole by the latter, except in those cases required by law.
5. The Insurer is only obligated for the invoices it has issued. The payment by the Policyholder of the premium to the broker shall not be understood to have been made to the Insurer, unless the broker delivers the premium invoice issued by the Insurer to the Policyholder.
6. The Insurer may apply a system of individual adjustment of premiums based on the expenses generated by the policy.

B) INITIAL PREMIUM

1. The initial premium is the one stated in the Specific Conditions of the policy and/or the Individual Insurance Certificate corresponding to the initial period of coverage indicated therein.

3. Unless otherwise agreed, if the premium has not been paid before there is an incident, the Insurer shall be released from its obligation.

C) SUBSEQUENT PREMIUMS

1. In the event of implied renewal of the contract, the premium for the subsequent periods will be calculated by applying the premium rates which, based on technical and actuarial criteria, the Insurer has established at any given time, also taking into account any modifications of benefits or causes of risk aggravation or reduction that may have occurred, in accordance with the provisions of these General Conditions, the ages of the Insured(s), the history and the policy claims ratio recorded in preceding insurance periods.
2. If the premium established for the new coverage period implies an increase with regard to the preceding period, the Insurance Company shall inform the Policyholder of the premium amount for the new coverage period, at least two months before the current contract expires, by sending the corresponding notice of bill collection to the address indicated for such purpose or, if this has not been stipulated, to the Policyholder's normal address, in accordance with Article 16 of these General Conditions for communications.

3. The non-payment of one of the subsequent premiums will cause the suspension of the coverage one month after its expiry date. If an incident occurs during that month, the Insurer may deduct the amount of the outstanding premium for the current period from the compensation amount.

Incidents that occur when the coverages are suspended will not be compensated.

If the Insurer does not demand the payment within six months of the expiry date of the premium, it will be understood that the contract is terminated. The Insurer, when the contract is suspended, may only demand the payment of the premium for the current period. If the contract had not been resolved or terminated, the coverage will be effective again at midnight on the day on which the Policyholder pays the premium.

D) PAYING BY INSTALLMENT

1. Payment of the annual premium by installment may be agreed upon in accordance with the provisions established in the Special Conditions of the contract.
2. If the policyholder fails to pay one of the bills in which the payment of the premium was split, the Insurer may require the Policyholder to pay all outstanding bills due. Payment of such must be made within a maximum period of thirty days following the date on which the Policyholder receives notification from the Insurer, by reliable means; if this payment is not made, the insurance shall be suspended one month after the first unpaid premium installment was due.
3. Notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding paragraph and while the coverage has not yet been suspended, in the event of a claim, the Insurer may deduct the amount of the premium installments due and unpaid by the Policyholder from the compensation.

E) PAYMENT THROUGH A FINANCIAL OR CREDIT INSTITUTION

If premium payments are to be paid by direct billing, the Policyholder shall provide the Insurance Company with a letter to their Bank or Credit Institution with the respective order. Additionally, the following general rules shall apply:

- First premium

The premium shall be deemed as paid from the day the contract enters into effect unless the Financial or Credit Institution returns an unpaid bill within a month of the contract's effective date. In this case, the Insurance Company shall notify the Policyholder in writing and inform them that the bill can be found at the Insurer's address for 15 days for the purpose of payment. If the premium is not paid within this period, the contract is terminated.

- Subsequent premiums

If the Financial or Credit Institution returns an unpaid bill, the Insurance Company shall notify the Policyholder and inform them that the bill is in the Insurer's possession for the purpose of payment. The insurance shall be suspended if payment is not made within the next month after its expiry date or within 15 days of the notice sent to the Policyholder, if the month has elapsed.

ARTICLE 16. COMMUNICATIONS

   Each party mutually authorizes the other to record all telephone conversations made to this effect.
